3. Policy Statement

In its employment and provision of services, NIODA aims to represent and meet the needs of our contemporary Australian culturally and linguistically diverse society. Access and Equity is about fair and equal access for staff, students, candidates, board and committee members, regardless of characteristics such as their gender, sexuality, race, nationality, ethnic background, age, marital status, religion, pregnancy, political convictions, or physical disability.

NIODA acknowledges that its legal and moral responsibilities with respect to access and equity cover the areas of:

- the provision of services offered by NIODA
- employment by NIODA
- the provision of information offered by NIODA
- any training and development offered by NIODA
- events hosted by NIODA
- the provision of education services.

4. Responsibilities

It is the responsibility of the Board of Governance to monitor the performance of the organisation by way of periodic management reports, and by promoting access and equity.

It is the responsibility of the CEO to implement this policy and to report to the Board of Governance annually on any issues arising in relation to access and equity, strategies applied and any suggested changes to procedures. The CEO ensures that:

- the organisation's practices and processes incorporate precautions against discrimination in such areas as recruitment, student and candidate selection, and course delivery
- reasonable accommodations are made to allow diverse groups to access the benefits provided by the organisation
- where appropriate, weight is given to the culture and experiences of individuals from disadvantaged groups
- the management systems established to prevent and remove discrimination are effective
- any adverse trends are addressed through the analyses of material breaches and identification of compliance system weaknesses for systematic trends
- there is a culture of effective policy compliance across the organisation.

It is the responsibility of board and committee members and staff to ensure that they are aware of the organisation's policy against discrimination, and where appropriate, suggest ways in which practices, systems and procedures could be improved so as to reduce the likelihood of discrimination occurring.

5. Procedures

The following procedures are in place to ensure NIODA meets its obligations under this policy:

- wherever feasible, staff have adequate support and training to provide services and information accessible to all people
- academic programs and other activities are designed and constructed to provide equal access for all users and ensure delivery on the basis of fair treatment of all those candidates, students and clients who are eligible to receive them
- all necessary strategies are used to inform eligible students, candidates and clients of the services available, their entitlements, and how they can obtain them. NIODA also consults with its students, candidates and clients regularly about the adequacy, design and standard of educational services

- as an employer, NIODA ensures all people have equal access to advertised positions, interviews, equipment, office accommodation, staff training and promotion
- wherever feasible, NIODA assesses proposals for any new (or substantially revised) policies or programs for their direct impact on the different aspects of the diverse lives of people prior to any decision to pursue such proposals
- resources are readily accessible on its policies and educational programs which are, where necessary, communicated appropriately to all students, candidates and participants
- complaints mechanisms are instituted that enable all clients, students and candidates to address issues and raise concerns about its performance
- agents, contractors, or partners of NIODA deliver outcomes consistent with this policy, and, in bidding for tenders or contracts, budget, where appropriate, makes provision for for linguistic and cultural diversity
- staff, where necessary, receive ongoing cultural diversity training so that they develop knowledge and skills to work effectively from a cultural framework
- diversity is promoted in the membership of its boards, committees and working groups
- is particularly sensitive to the need to enable people with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander backgrounds to have access and culturally specific support to postgraduate leadership and management education. NIODA acknowledges the traditional owners of land with an 'acknowledgment of country' at the beginning of every public NIODA event; seminar, symposium, workshop, conference, and graduation.

When in Melbourne as follows:

I would like to acknowledge the Wurundjeri people of the Kulin nation who are the traditional custodians of the land on which we stand and recognise their continuing connection to land, waters and culture.

I would also like to pay respect to the Wurundjeri Elders, past, and present, and extend this respect to Aboriginal and Torres Strait people from other communities who are here today.

NIODA staff must ensure that each acknowledgement relates appropriately both to the country on which each event is held and for virtual events, to the country on which participants are located.
